Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election of Species 2, figures 3-4, claims 1-16 in the reply filed on October 24, 2006 is acknowledged. Because applicant did not distinctly and specifically point out the supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election has been treated as an election without traverse (MPEP § 818.03(a)). Further, the examiner agrees that claims 6-8 are generic to the four species.
2. Claims 17-47 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected species, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on October 24, 2006.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claim 6 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Jones et al (U.S. 5,902,211).

Jones et al discloses in an automotive vehicle having an engine throttle under the control of an electronic control module (36), a vehicle disable system comprising: a throttle position sensor (30) having a driver input mechanism (19), said driver input mechanism (19) indicating a state of the throttle varying between idle operation and non-idle operation, and generating a throttle position signal (by the sensor 30) related to the state of said driver input mechanism; an ECM (36) input adapted to be connected to the ECM, said throttle position sensor (30) providing said throttle position signal to the ECM on said ECM input; and an override input (the throttle control 37, also see column 3, lines 45-50) that enables an idling signal (see column 4, lines 30-40) to be transmitted to the ECM on said ECM input in lieu of said throttle position signal.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claim 8 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Jones et al in view of Hawkins et al (U.S. 4,444,286).

Jones et al discloses every element of the invention as discussed in claim 6 above except that the throttle position sensor includes a resistor and a wiper arm in contact with the resistor.

Hawkins et al teaches the invention wherein throttle position sensor (56) includes a resistor (122) and a wiper arm (126) in contact with the resistor (122). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the throttle position sensor of Jones et al by using the teaching of Hawkins et al in order to ensure proper performance of the disagreement clutch system.

Allowable Subject Matter

7. Claims 1-5 are allowed. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: The prior art either alone or in combination fails to disclose, teach, or suggest a method of forcing the throttle to idle comprising the steps of: a throttle position sensor, and a throttle position signal line, wherein the throttle position signal line including a switch means to disconnect the throttle position signal line from an electronic control module input and connect an alternative signal line to the electronic control module input; activating the switch means, and transmitting an idling signal to the electronic control module input to effect the idling of the throttle.

8. Claims 7, and 9-16 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
